➔ Porcelain

Porcelain includes work that spans a period of 20 years during which I was a potter and ceramic artist working primarily in porcelain.

➔ Publishing

Publishing includes work from the past 8 years as I explore a two dimensional world of print and digital design.

Creating space in such a world poses challenges not unlike balancing on a tightrope for one who has thought sculpturally for most of her creative life.

Production Notes

Porcelain

The porcelain pottery is thrown on the potter's wheel, except for the hand formed beads in the jewelry.

All work is fired in a gas kiln to cone 11 (about 2300°F).

For the beads there is a third "China" firing to cone 018 (about 1300°). In preparation for this firing, gold is applied to each bead by brush.
